

I am totally against cell phones being allowed to be used during flight times. At the moment it is a nuisance being allowed to use them until the doors are closed. When you are in such a close proximity with your fellow passengers, especially in coach class, it can be very stressful as well as annoying. It may even contribute to antagonism amongst fellow passengers if allowed, I for one, would get very frustrated having to listen to someone else chatting on a cell phone in the seat next to me for even a short flight.
